

Victoria Marrero is Ph. D. in Linguistics from the Complutense University of Madrid, and Professor of Linguistics and Spanish Language at the National Distance Education University (UNED) in Spain. She has been a guest speaker at the CSIC (Spanish Research Council) and several Spanish universities, where she has taught in the postgraduate programs (Universidad Complutense de Madrid, Universidad Autónoma de Madrid, Universidad de Barcelona, etc).

Her main areas of interest are Phonetics, Speech Perception, Clinical Linguistics, Language Acquisition and Spanish as a Second Language for Immigrants. She has participated in research projects funded by the European Union, or by the Spanish Ministry of Science. Among her latest works (in collaboration) are the books entitled El Lenguaje Humano, Invitación a la Lingüística (coord V. Escandell, ed. UNED-CEURA), Assessing Grammar; the languages of LARSP (M.J. Ball, D. Crystal and P. Fletcher, eds.). She has co-edited the Proceedings of the II International Conference on Clinical Linguistics, and authored/co-authored ten other books, as well as numerous articles in journals as Speech Communication, Revista de Filología Española, Revista de Logopedia, Foniatría y Audiología, among others.